Archtop Jazz-Guitars

Premium tonewoods and meticulous craftsmanship form a harmonious relationship that made Eastman's name in the jazz guitar world. The choice of tonewoods and the time honored processes followed to craft these guitars create an organically acoustic tone that is seldom matched. Chords are full and complex while single notes are crisp and well defined. Custom Kent Armstrong pickups compliment the sound of the wood and deliver a smooth and balanced tone. The hardware and fittings provide form and function and the traditional lacquer finish is as beautiful as it is functional.

Jim Fisch Archtop Guitars, Mahogany

This special series commemorates the late jazz guitar aficionado: Jim Fish. Before this unfortunate passing he made his impression on the Uptown guitar series by using mahogany for the back and sides and rosewood for the fretboard, bridge & tailpiece to give it a unique voice as well as "dressing it down" for a modest appearance. The result is an archtop with superior midrange, volume, and a very woody vintage tone. Deluxe hardshell case included.

Uptown Guitars

The Uptown series put Eastman on the archtop map and has quickly become a staple in the jazz community. It is no surprise due to its unsurpassed craftsmanship and features: solid hand-carve spruce top, solid hand-carved maple back & sides, ebony fretboard, bridge, and tailpiece., Kent Armstrong pickups, Gotoh hardware, and high-gloss lacquer finish. Deluxe hardshell case included.

Acoustic Guitars
Each guitar is created with a solid top, back and sides. The top is individually-voiced with scalloped X-bracing. The neck is hand-fitted to the body with a dovetail joint. Each guitar is finished with a rosewood headstock overlay, ebony fingerboard, bridge and bridge pins, and a hand-rubbed nitro-cellulose gloss lacquer finish.
Traditional Series
The Eastman Traditional Series inspired by the great flattops of the Golden Era. While modern production gradually drifts further from the disciplin that created this legacy, Eastman embraces it. The result is a brilliant tribute to the iconic guitars of the 30's and 40's. Mahogany backed models feature classic microdot fret markers. All models include vintage inspired all solid wood construction , bone nut/saddle and period-correct styled tuners. Deluxe hardshell case included. All Adirondack topped Traditional Series guitars feature dynamically sensitive ebony fingerboards.
